ENVOYS SENT BY DR. SUN TO LEADERS IN NORTH

Southern Chief's Agents Go To Peking, Tientsin, Mukden And Loyang

NEW MOVE SEEN

Not Yet Known Whether Sun Himself Will Go To Capital

Following upon conferences that opened here after Dr. Sun Yat-sen arrived from Canton several weeks ago when various political and military factions sent representatives to meet with the Southern leader it was disclosed yesterday that in his turn Doctor Sun is dispatching envoys into the camps of those with whom he has been negotiating at long range here.

This action sets at rest for the time being various reports that Doctor Sun himself intended to proceed to Peking whither he had been invited in urgent messages sent to him here in Shanghai by President Li Yuan-hung.

According to the reports that became public yesterday Doctor Sun has named Mr. Quo Tai-chi as his special delegate to pay a return visit to Gen. Li Yuan-hung, Chief Executive at Peking. It is understood that Mr. Quo will leave for the Capital tomorrow.

At the same time Mr. Hu Han-min, former Governor of Canton, is to leave for Tientsin where as special representative of Doctor Sun he will call upon Gen. Tuan Chi-jui and Mr. Wang Chao-ming is to proceed to Mukden and confer there with Gen. Chang Tso-lin. Mr. Chang Chi, former President of the Senate, is to be Doctor Sun's representative in conferences to be held with Gen. Tsao Kun and Gen Wu Pei-fu.

Mr. Wang Chao-ming left for Mukden on Monday, Mr. Chang Chi is leaving today for Nanking en route to Paotingfu and Loyang and Mr. Hu Han-min will leave for the north tombrrow with Mr. Quo Tai-chi.

Besides the invitation to Peking that was extended to Doctor Sun by Li Yuan-hung, it is known that other invitations of more or less urgent nature were sent to the Southern leader by elements of the various factions asking him to come north.

In the manifesto that he issued shortly after his arrival in Shanghai and in subsequent statements Doctor Sun has indicated his belief that general readjustment of China's finances is an essential preliminary before reunification of the country can be brought about and it is believed that a plan to deal with the country's finances is one of the important things to be dealt with by Doctor Sun's envoys into the north.

The Constitutionalist leader has not yet given any intimation that he intends to accept the various invitations to Peking, but he has expressed a willingness to proceed to the Capital in the event that he can be of assistance in effecting a readjustment of the country's finances.

Mines In North Closed By Workers Unpaid 5 Months

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, Sept. 22.—The labor agitation has now spread to the miners of Pinghsiang and Tuping who have been on a strike for four days, holding out for three demands. The most important demand, and the one which seems fairly reasonable, is that the five months' pay which is in arrears be granted them and future guaranteed be given that this delay will not happen again.

To this the mine owners reply that they are in financial difficulties which have caused this delay in salaries. The other two demands have to do with housing questions and the owners are apparently willing to treat with the men thereon.

Because of the location of these mines, it is said that there is danger of flooding unless the pumps are got to working again. In the words of the Chinese correspondent, there is danger of them becoming a "water mines" unless action is taken soon.

GENERAL CHEN'S ARMY NUMBERS 70,000, HE SAYS

Many Assemblymen Think Army Should Be Reduced

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Sept. 18.—General Chen Chiung-ming, Commander-in-Chief of the Cantonese Army, discussing the local military problem with some members of the Kwangtung Provincial Assembly recently, gave the number of troops under his command as 70,000. In the opinion of many members of the Assembly this figure should be greatly reduced.

Students in Canton may have a further vacation, as the teachers have intimated that they will suspend the school sessions unless they are paid regularly. The teachers have been five months without pay.

Admiral Tan Ting-kuang, formerly Minister of the Navy under Dr. Sun Yat-sen, has assumed the duty of Director-General of the Board of Conservancy Works of Kwangtung. The work of the Board has not been extensive lately owing to lack of appropriations. As this is a non-political office and the work being done is for the benefit of shipping and for flood prevention, some financial aid has been received from Peking within the past few years during which Kwangtung has been independent.

Dr. Lew Yuk-lin, former Chinese Minister to Great Britain, assumed the duties of Commissioner for Foreign Affairs and Superintendent of Customs last week in Canton, relieving Mr. Frank W. Lee. The offices of the Superintendent of Customs were destroyed by fire on the night of Sept. 16. The cause of the fire is believed to have been careless handling of ammunition and explosives by troops occupying part of the building at the time. Only part of the office documents were saved.

Colonel Yeh Chu, unsuccessful candidate for the governorship of Kwangtung, has been made Chief of Staff to General Chen Chiung-ming. He has not signified his acceptance of the appointment so far, and the General is asking Mr. Kin Chang, a private secretary to the commander-in-Chief, and Mr. Chang Tsing, a speaker of the Kwangtung Provincial Assembly, to go to Waichow to urge Colonel Yeh to return to Canton.

Mr. Chen Lim Pak, President of the General Chamber of Commerce in Canton, has suggested to the Canton Governor the creation of a reserve fund of $10,000,000 immediately in order to prevent further depreciation of Government paper money and the issue of frequent statements as to the exact amount of notes issued and in circulation. The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation at Shameen, by special arrangement with the Canton Government, is accepting Government notes for deposit with interest from 5 to 6 percent, payable in cash while the principal may be withdrawn in notes only.

DIETERICHS AND CHANG IN SECRET COMPACT, REPORT

Mukden Chief Said To Have Received Big Supply Of Munitions

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Sept. 25.—The Kokumin confidently reports that a secret agreement has been consummated between the Dieterichs Government at Vladivostok and General Chang Tso-lin at Mukden, under which immense quantities of arms and ammunition stored at Vladivostok have been sent to Mukden. The military authorities at Tokio state that upon evacuation by Japanese troops the munitions hitherto held by the Japanese will inevitable fall into the hands of General Dieterichs who will most probably form a combination with General Chang Tso-lin against the Moscow-China combination. The military authorities further state that reports have already reached them of secret negotiations between General Dieterichs and General Chang.

The Kokumin states that Colonel Machina, the Japanese Advisor to General Chang Tso-lin, together with General Chang Tsung-chang, a relative of General Chang Tso-lin, took delivery of the arms and ammunition which have already been delivered and shipped to Mukden on September 15 and 20. The Tokio authorities state that the reported transfer is now under investigation and if Japanese officers are concerned they will be severely punished.

Living Lost Art In Soviet Russia, Writes Professor

(China Press Service)

London, Sept. 5.—Pathetic letters are received here every day from prominent Russians in Moscow and other large Soviet centers depicting the plight of the population under the present regime. Writing to one of the London newspapers, Professor Christevitch, an eminent physician, says that everyone is anxious to come to Europe or America to see how human beings live.

"We are living a life of beasts," says the latter, "and we think only of wood and food. We are cut off from all civilised life and sympathising people. You cannot, perhaps, understand how heavy life is without intellectual impressions, without books and newspapers and friendly conversations.

"Our hearts are so hardened by sufferings and losses that deaths of friends and relations make no more impression upon us than trival events. Nevertheless we continue to hope to be human beings again! In the old Czarist days my wife and I longed for political freedom. Today my wife's ideal is to have a pair of stockings at 2,000,000 rubles a pair.

"We are all alive. That is the principal thing these days. We sold all our things in the hope to buy new ones when we moved from Kazan to Petrograd, but we ate all our money. We are very rich now in Russia, but only in numerals. You see that the stamp upon this letter cost 100,000 rubles. A loaf of bread costs three times that.

"We live, and we are satisfied that we live, and that the winter has passed. I fear to give you all the news for it is such a long list of dead from maladies and ruin."

BRITISH PUBLIC SEES LOSS OF PRESTIGE IN NEAR EAST DECISIONS

Many Think Government Has Been Compromised By Recent Policy Of Acquiescence With French And Italian Program

CONFLICTING REPORTS IN LONDON

Some Despatches Say Kemalists Are In Bellicose Mood And Will Accept Nothing Short Of Complete Surrender

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 25.—Notwithstanding the feeling of relief that the crisis in the Near East has become much less acute owing to the Allied agreement in Paris, it is clear that the public mind is rather exercised over the way in which British prestige has been compromised by the Government's recent policy. Agreement with the Government's decision to fall into line with the French and Italian ideas in no way implies the expression of a tone of friendliness.

The Westminster Gazette is particularly outspoken and refers to it as a severe diplomatic setback after talking very big. It suggests that the Allied offer might not have been so overgenerous if the Government had been quieter and more decorous. Even the papers most sympathetic to the Government find it difficult to stomach some of the new decisions but content themselves with the belief that the safest policy has been adopted and stress that the essential consideration has been the preservation of Allied harmony.

The principal objection is directed against the virtual undertaking to restore East Thrace to Turkey. A proposal which is greeted very warmly is that to entrust the League of Nations with the maintenance of the freedom of the Straits. Gratification is expressed at investment of the League with increased authority. It is urged, however, that the League should raise its own troops instead of depending on foreign contingents.

The reports of the Kemalist reception of the Allied Note are conflicting. While it is stated in some Constantinople quarters that it has created a favorable impression, in others it is reported that the Kemalists are in an intransigeant mood and are pressing for immediate and unconditional occupation of East Thrace and also for the attendance of a Russian representative at the conference. It is anticipated that French influence will be brought to bear to induce a more tolerant attitude.

The French papers are pleased at the improved situation and, in common with their British contemporaries, pay a warm tribute to Lord Curzon and liberally recognise the greatness of Britain's action in heeding the opinions of the Allies.

London, Sept. 25.—It is reported from Chanak that the Turks have retired on Bairamich outside the neutral zone. It is believed that entry into the zone was ordered before the Allied offer from Paris was known.

Constantinople, Sept. 25.—The highest French authorities are convinced that the Smyrna fire cannot be attributed to the Turks. It is declared that investigations show that there is no ground for the statements made by refugees that the Turks sprinkled the streets and houses with petrol. On the contrary preceding the fire Armenians are alleged to have thrown bombs from houses and in other ways to have acted in a hostile manner, which, it is sincerely stated, caused repressive measures of which the Armenians were the principal victims.

LAUNCH VESSEL FOR SERVICE ON UPPER YANGTSZE

New Craft Expected To Go On All-Winter Run

Another ship for the Upper Yangtsze service, one intended for all-winter navigation of the river's higher reaches, was launched at the yards of the Societe Franco-Chinois de Constructions Metalliques et Mechaniques Saturday afternoon, when the steamer Tze Sui went down the ways.

The Tze Sui, built for Chinese owners, is a shallow draft, tunnel stern twin screw steamer. She is 140 feet long, with 24-foot beam and a draft of 4 feet six inches. The vessel has accommodation for first, second and third class passengers and good cargo space and is expected to have a speed of 14 knots. Her machinery installation consists of two light high speed triple expansion engines and two Yarrow type tube boilers, with the usual auxiliary machinery required for this type of vessel. The complete installation was manufactured by the builders.

The ship was christened by Mme. Laurent, wife of the managing director of the yard.

Poincare Seeking Full Acceptance Of Turkish Demands

(China Press Service)

Paris, Sept. 24.—Premier Poincare was a tower of strength for the Turk at the Conference of the allies. He held out strongly for the full acceptance of the Turkish demands as the best way to effect peace in the Near East.

He hoped the Allies would agree to draw up the invitation to Kemal in such a way that would insure its acceptance.

It is considered likely that France has given assurances to the Kemalists to exert all her influence to induce the Allies to favor the Turkish claims.

It is indicated that the note will ask Kemal to declare an immediate armistice and attend a meeting to be held at Mudania in Asia Minor.

Lloyd George Explains Britain's Near East Policy

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 23.—Mr. Lloyd George, addressing pressmen at Downing Street today, said that he wished to explain the facts of the position in the Near East in view of the misapprehension of the character of the difficulties that had arisen.

He declared that the strengthening of the military and naval forces had been dictated by two supreme considerations. The first was anxiety with regard to the freedom of the seas between the Mediterranean and Black Seas, which was an essential primary condition.

The war had demonstrated very clearly that the freedom of the Dardanelles was vital to the security of the Empire and the protection of commerce. The closing of the Straits by Turkey, who owed more to Britain and France than any power in the world, was an act of perfidy, which was responsible for the collapse of Russia, the defeat of Rumania and the prolongation of the war for two years.

STRAITS ESSENTIAL

It was an essential condition of world peace that there should be an effective guarantee for the freedom of the Straits. A peace signed without achieving that object would be equivalent to a defeat.

Therefore the first purpose of British action during the last few days had been to ensure the freedom of this essential waterway to civilisation. In doing this Britain was not taking separate action but simply carrying out the policy agreed upon by the Allies in 1918.

"We have not departed from it one iota and could not do so without betraying the trust which the Empire has vested in us."

"The second object was to prevent an exceptionally horrible war spreading to Europe. Britain did not attempt to apportion the blame between the Greeks and the Turks. The facts that Smyrna had been destroyed and that massacres had occurred was sufficient justification for the policy. If an army which could not be restrained from perpetrating such outrages crossed into Constantinople, the Premier feared that there might be a repetition of these terrible incidents.

There was danger also of the spread of the conflagration to the inflammable Balkans. The Premier recalled that the war of 1914 began in the Balkans and therefore he regarded it of paramount importance to European peace that the war in Asia Minor should not spread to Europe.

Mr. Lloyd George emphasised that Britain had been most impartial between the Turks and the Greeks. The Greeks had recently threatened to march on Constantinople which would have necessitated passage through the neutral zone. The British Generalissimo of the Allied Forces had warned the Greeks in terms identical with those just used to Mustapha Kemal that he would not allow them to enter the neutral zone.

Incidentally the Premier mentioned that military advisers regarded it essential that Chanak should be held in order to secure the freedom of the Straits to unarmed vessels. He proceeded to emphasise that he did not want to hold Gallipoli or Chanak in the interest of Britain alone. He did not claim that Britain alone should have the sole responsibility.

"On the contrary we believe that these important shores should be held under the auspices of the League of Nations in the interest of all nations alike."

The freedom of the Straits was a matter of life and death for Rumania and Russia and was fundamental in the interest of the world's commerce.

NO FIGHT OVER THRACE

The British Government, however, did not go back on anything it had said about Constantinople remaining Turkish nor was it putting up any fight with regard to the sovereignty of Eastern Thrace.

Concluding the Premier stressed that he was not departing from the agreed policy of the Allies, enunciated in 1918. He recalled that the proposals for the protection of minorities by mandates broke down but the Straits remained. The Premier added:

"The fight we are putting up at present is to ensure that, whatever happens at the peace conference, we shall not abandon the policy of securing the freedom of the Straits. By that we do not mean by clauses depending on the caprice of the Constantinople Government. The security must be of a more reliable and effective character than in 1914."

That was why Britain had taken the steps she had and would do her best to secure an immediate conference.

An appeal was made to Australia and New Zealand particularly because they had a particular interest in Gallipoli. They had made great sacrifices of thousands of their most heroic sons in the cause of the freedom of the Straits and they felt that, when that freedom was challenged, they had a right to associate themselves with us in any action to maintain what had cost so much to achieve.

Replying to a questioner, Mr. Lloyd George reiterated emphatically that Britain did not want a second Gibraltar at the Dardanelles. She wanted the League of Nations to keep the Straits open for all nations.

Lloyd George Tells Why He Consulted Dominion Premiers

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 23.—Mr. Lloyd George, after the fifty minutes address to the pressmen at Downing Street, was specially interviewed by Reuter's representative on the subject of the Dominions, notably the Canadian criticisms of the method of publicity used by the British Government on September 16 with regard to the invitation to the Dominions to send contingents.

The Premier emphatically denied that the Dominions were in any way being exploited for political purposes. He said that there was no question of any such thing and the impression was entirely unfounded. The Cabinet felt that the sacrifices of Australia and New Zealand at Gallipoli entitled them to consultation when the question of the freedom of the Straits was involved.

The Cabinet decided, therefore, that those Dominions were entitled to participate in the defence of the Straits. The Cabinet felt at the same time that it was impossible to ask two of the Dominions without inviting the remainder, thus Canada and South Africa were also approached.

It was noteworthy that the Canadian criticisms specially referred to the fact that no such invitation was made in 1914 when the Dominions spontaneously volunteered.

Ottawa, Sept. 23.—Mr. Crerar, the Nationalist Progressive leader, was summoned today to confer with the Premier, Mr. Mackenzie-King. The latter announces that his personal view is that a promise to send or the actual despatch of Canadian troops to the Near East should be decided by Parliament.

Toronto, Sept. 23.—Mr. Arthur Meighen, the former Premier, addressing a meeting of business men at the Conservative Club today, assailed the delay of the Government in replying to Britain's appeal. He asserted that the policy of delay might drag Canada into a war. What Britain wanted was a declaration of the Empire's solidarity.

Mr. Meighen said he would back Mr. Mackenzie-King in rushing a message of loyal co-operation similar to those from New Zealand and Australia, "yet Canada which, as a party to the Sevres Treaty, when asked to stand by the compact, should have said 'aye, ready,' did nothing."

Kemalist Cavalry Crosses The Border

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, Sept. 24.—A strong force of Kemalist cavalry crossed the neutral frontier in the Chanak region near the village of Erenkeuy yesterday within gunshot of the British lines.

The Governor of Chanak has warned them to retire as they are transgressing the neutral zone and it has been arranged that Brigadier-General Shuttleworth will meet Turkish parlementaires at six o'clock in the morning with a view to obtaining the amicable withdrawal of the Turks.

General Sir Charles Harington has summoned the Angora representative here for the purpose of making similar representations.

It is believed that, in view of the Allies acceptance of the Turkish demands with regard to Thrace, a friendly understanding will be reached.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—The death is reported of Ex-Ambassador of the United States to Germany, Mr. Gerard.

Soviet To Stand With Turk To Last

(China Press Service)

Berlin, Sept. 24.—Interviewed on the eve of his return to Moscow, Chicherin made the following declaration:

"The Soviet government has acknowledge the justice of the Turkish nationalists dmands. Whatever Russia will undertake concerning the Near East will be in full agreement with the Turks.

"Russia considers the agreement signed with the Turks at Moscow in 1921 as the only one binding upon her."

Chicherin furthermore emphasised:

"Actually there is no Pan-Islamic movement such as that which originated under Abdul Hamid who sought to bring all Mohammedan nations under his hegemony. The only national movements are those of all Asiatic nations who are striving at absolute independence.

"The Moslem movement is national as well and all Moslem nations will assist each other in their national efforts without aiming at the formation of a Moslem unity."

Allies Ask Turkey To Join Conference

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 23.—As an outcome of the Near Eastern Conference, Britain, France and Italy have jointly invited Turkey to a conference, promising to recognise the Maritza frontier, including Adrianople, and Turkish sovereignty over the Straits subject to guarantees of their neutrality, the foregoing conditional reestablishment of peace.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 23.—The Central Committee of India has addressed from Bombay to Ferid Bey, the Angora representative at Paris, a telegram protesting against a new war against Turkey.

Parleys Probable, London Is Easier

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 24.—A deep sigh of relief was heaved in London and Paris through yesterday evening's announcement that concord had been reached between the Allies and that a united Note had been sent to Angora instead of a series of separate Notes as appeared probable.

This decided change in the situation for the better was not anticipated and only came at the conclusion of a strenuous day's deliberations on the part of Lord Curzon, M. Poincare and Court Sforza.

Reuter's Paris correspondent is authoritatively informed that a French correspondent learns that the conditions are very acceptable to Turkey and has gathered that the impression in Ottoman circles is that Angora is satisfied with the contemplated substantial modifications to the Treaty of Sevres.

The new peace treaty proposed by the Allied Note will probably settle both the conflict between Turkey and Greece and the war between Turkey and the Allies, in the letter instance it being the substitute for the Treaty of Sevres.

It is anticipated that all the nations concerned will be satisfied with the new proposals except the Greeks whose aspirations after territorial expansion will be frustrated. Tribute in Paris is particularly lavished on Lord Curzon to whose sincere desire to avoid war M. Poincare strongly testified after the conference.

TO INSURE ORDER

(Reuter's Service)

Constantinople, Sept. 23.—The French Commander has informed the British authorities that he will assure the maintenance of order in Stamboul in the event of trouble in Constantinople.

French whippet tanks have been brought to a vantage point near Seraglio point and the French garrison at Stambul has been strengthened by a battalion from Chatalja.

The French Government has sent a wireless message to Mustapha Kemal requesting him not to take any action until the arrival of its special emissary, M. Bouillon, who left Paris yesterday for Smyrna.

London, Sept. 23.—Bulgaria has delivered identical notes in London, Paris and Rome upholding the freedom of the Straits and advocating the establishment of an autonomous state in Thrace under the control of the League of Nations with special arrangements for safeguarding religious interests at Adrianople.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

The rest, in the hermetically closed bottle, remains fresh and effervescent to the last drop. No looking for openers.

Political Interest In U. S. Now Centers On Elections

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, September 1.—In the general political situation of America at present the coming Congressional practically predominates all else although the tariff and the crises, resulting from the strikes of coalminers and railway employees, are important factors. Foreign affairs have been relegated to the background for the time being with the absence of the Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes, who is visiting the Brasilian Exposition at Rio de Janeiro. The question of refunding the debts owed by European nations to the United States is expected to be revived with return of Mr. Hughes and the arrival probably early in October of the British mission to discuss refunding of the British debt.

The approaching Congressional election, to be held on November 7 next, is influencing the course of legislation before Congress which has been in continuous session since December 5, 1921—one of the longest sessions on record. Notwithstanding the pressure for passage of important legislation, including measures for relief from the coal and railway crises brought about by the strikes of the last few months, leaders of both the Senate and the House of Representatives are endeavoring to conclude the present session, either by a recess until after the elections, or by an adjournment. Such action is deemed essential inasmuch as many members of both bodies of Congress have been nominated to stand for re-election in November and they insist on returning to their home districts to conduct their political campaigns.

Indications are that Congress may be able to conclude its urgent work by the fore part of October and take a recess or an adjournment then. The Tariff Bill, which was introduced in the House of Representatives in January 1921 and passed by that House in July 1921, during the first session of the 67th Congress and had since then until recently been before the Senate, it is believed, will by early October have been finally acted upon by the Senate and House of Representatives and received the President's signature making it a law.

SHIPPING BILL

The Shipping Bill for the rehabilitation of the American Merchant Marine, the Bonus Bill which provides relief for American world war veterans, and other pieces of important legislation may have to go over for consideration during the 3rd Session of the 67th Congress to begin December 4 and continue three months until it expires by law on March 4, 1923. There is a possibility, however, of Congress being reassembled by special call prior to December 4 because of the pressure of important legislation inasmuch as at the 3rd, or short, Session the important money supply bills, appropriating funds for carrying on the functions of the Government during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1923, must be enacted. They are sufficient to occupy the attention of Congress the entire three months of the Short Session and little additional legislation could be attempted during that session.

The Congressional election, important to both the Republican and Democratic parties, is occupying the minds of many Congressmen as thirty-two Senators, or one-third of the membership of the Senate, retire on March 4, 1923, and the terms of the 435 members of the House of Representatives also expire that day. The November elections will determine who will succeed these retiring members. Many of them have been nominated to stand for reelection and the campaigns of the two parties to elect their nominees already have begun to take shape on such issues as the tariff, the soldiers' bonus, the prohibition question and various local issues.

With the Republican party at present holding power in both Houses of Congress, that party is looked upon as the probable victor in the coming November elections although it may lose some members in both the Senate and House of Representatives. Democrat leaders predict success in electing a larger number of their party than now are in Congress and have visions of winning control of the House of Representatives. The result of the November election is looked upon as an indication of what the result might be in the Presidential election two years hence, in 1924, when a successor to President Harding will be elected and at the same time 32 new Senators and the entire membership of the House of Representatives.

Senators to be elected in the election this November will succeed 17 Republicans and 15 Democrats who retire on March 4 next. The Republican Party have a majority of 23 in the Senate at present and feels it will be able to elect its nominees and retain or increase that majority. In the House of Representatives the Republicans have at present a majority of 168, the Republican membership numbering 299 as against a Democratic membership of 131. It seems doubtful that the Democratic party will succeed in overturning that majority in the November election although they may reduce the Republican majority to some extent.

For the first time in eight years foreign relations will not be the principal issue in the Congressional political campaign. The League of Nations sleeps soundly, though the dreams of its slayers are sometimes disturbed by doubts inspired by the vigorous attempt of James M. Cox, former Democratic candidate for the Presidency, to revive that issue. That veteran Democratic leader, William Jennings Bryan, who seems to have an almost uncanny sense of what the mass of his party wants, has now set his face like flint against a renewal of the effort to bring America into the League. There is every indication that he will be able to keep it out of the campaign, beyond a very limited discussion at the hands of Mr. Cox himself.

There is no longer any possible question of mandates. America will have none of them and the Republican Administration rests content with the success the Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes, has met in securing equality of treatment for American trade in the formerly German-owned territories.

As to the matter of Europe's war debt to America, leaders in both political parties appear satisfied to leave to the Debt Refunding Commission that whole subject, having assured themselves by act of Congress against any cancellation. The mass of the people are still believed to be opposed to the cancellation idea. Congressmen, privately sceptical of the ability of Europe to make repayment, dare not openly favor even an abatement of the debt or interest thereon. There may be a change in that respect after the November election but at the present the public cannot contemplate with equanimity any project that dims the hope of lightening the heavy taxation or threatens the inflow of foreign money to meet the enormous interest on the Liberty Loans.

Foreign relations generally are regarded as highly satisfactory and there are less than the usual number of open issues between the Governments with which the United States has relations. Mexico is slowly drawing near the point where recognition may be expected. As soon as President Obregon of Mexico feels strong enough to defy the intransigeant elements in his own Cabinet and follow his own judgment, it is expected he will yield to the steady pressure which the American Secretary of States, Mr. Hughes, has been exerting, agreeing to drop the policy of nationalisation of Mexico's natural resources and respect the legally acquired rights of foreign corporations and individuals. Those are, in brief, the conditions upon which American recognition must be based, and it is known that the British Government is in full sympathy with them.

Negotiations now in progress between the American Government and Great Britain regarding the novel proposition advanced by the American Secretary of State under pressure of the prohibition forces that the right of search of foreign vessels shall be extended beyond the old marine league to head off rum-runners from the West Indies, are regarded as more interesting than threatening of trouble. The British Government naturally is insistent on listening to its Colonial officials as they are directly interested and it will probably be a long time before any agreement can be reached on this subject.

The Washington Conference on limitation of armament and Pacific and Far Eastern questions left several matters to be settled in connection with Far Eastern affairs, such as the status of the Chinese Eastern Railway, the withdrawal of foreign troops in China, the readjustment of Chinese Customs and other Oriental subjects. Negotiations are in process touching some of these and particularly between the United States and Japan, in relation to the withdrawal of Japanese forces from Siberia. All of these negotiations have every prospect of a satisfactory conclusion in view of the greatly improved relations between Japan and the United States and the growth of a feeling of mutual confidence and regard as one of the most valuable results of the Washington Conference.

Praying For Murderers Of Sir Henry Wilson

LARGE crowds of radical Irish sympathisers gathered before Wandsworth Prison on the morning of the execution of Dunn and O'Sullivan, who assassinated Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson as he stepped from a taxicab at his London home, and prayed for the souls of the condemned men as they ascended the gallows. Brothers and sisters of the slayers were among the worshippers.

Silver Mining Booming Again In Old Mexico

Chihuahua City, Mexico.—Silver mines are being operated in Mexico at a good profit, it is said, with silver selling around 70 cents an ounce.

When silver is below 60 cents, mines in this country cannot be worked at a profit, as a rule. When silver is above this figure a small profit, hardly worth while, as the usual thing, can be made, but when it reaches 70 a profit of around 10 cents an ounce is made with silver selling at 70 cents, or thereabout, consequently there is a big revival in the mining business of this country, and especially in the state of Chihuahua which produces the principal part of Mexico's silver yield.

Old mines are being re-worked thoroughly, and prospecting is going on in almost an unprecedented degree.

During the six months just past, there passed through Juarez, Chihuahua, alone, the Mexican consulate there reports, silver in refined form valued at $419,947 and ores containing silver and other metals (mostly gold and lead) valued at $14,089. During the same period in 1921, total silver, silver ore and combined metal ore passing through that port was valued at only $5,499. Juarez is the most important port for the exportation of silver from this state to the United States.

The average price of silver from 1910 to 1914 was 56.445 cents an ounce. Labor and other costs were lighter then, and some Chihuahua mines produced at a profit at that figure. In 1921 the average price was 62.62 cents.

Present price of silver is caused by demands from India and China, it was stated. The world's output in 1921 was 175,000,000 ounces, of which Mexico produced 39 percent and the United States 21 percent. More than 40,000,000 ounces of this went to India and 52,000,000 to China, being purchased by Chinese bankers.

The government of Mexico, realising the importance of a revival in silver mining, is encouraging the re-opening of mines, some of which have been closed for ten years.

It has been announced at the capital that soon in order to stimulate production, the duty on dynamite is to be lifted. This will help mining considerably, as it is used extensively in mining in this republic. The duty now on dynamite is $1.07 a hundred pounds, American money.

ANNUAL RITES FOR CONFUCIUS TO BE OBSERVED

Yearly Official Worship Of Sage To Be Conducted By Peking Officials

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Changchun, Sept. 24.—The Changchun Conference resumed sessions yesterday. Acting on instructions from Moscow the Russians insisted that the evacuation of Northern Saghalin should be considered independently from the Nicolaevsk affair and requested that a fixed date for the withdrawal of the troops be declared beforehand.

To this the Japanese persisted in their former attitude that the evacuation of Saghalin would be effected immediately upon the settlement of the Nicolaevsk affair which will be discussed forthwith after the signing of the general agreement now under discussion.

They declared that it was impossible to indicate a date for evacuation before the signing of the agreement. It was finally decided to adjourn the Conference until the Japanese had received final instructions from Tokio.

Tokio, Sept. 23.—It is reported from a reliable source that the Cabinet has instructed the Japanese delegates at Changchun that the first agreement must apply to Chita only and become effective immediately on signature.

The Nikolaievsk affair and the occupation of Saghalin are so closely connected that they cannot be discussed separately. Japan will be prepared to discuss the evacuation of Saghalin after the Chita agreement has been concluded. If the Russians insist on discussing the evacuation of Saghalin at the present conference Japan will withdraw.

Japan agrees that the application of the prohibition of prohibition of propaganda should be extended to Soviet Russia.

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, Sept. 22.—The annual official worship at the Temple of Confucius by the supreme authority of the Peking Government will take place, Tuesday. It is not believed that the President himself will go through the rites, but that he will delegate some high official to do so. Each of the Governmental departments sends representatives to the ceremony, which usually takes place at dawn or before.

This impressive worship is closed to the public, but the crowds gather outside of the Temple of Confucius to see the high officials come and go.

Because of the proximity of dates, the official sacrifical offering to the God of War at the Kuan Yueh Miao will be postponed from September 27 to October 7 this year. With the ceremony at the Temple of Confucius on the 26th, the Government felt the necessity of changing the date of the other one.

Therefore, the Ministry of the Interior has requested the Cabinet Office to make arrangements for the officials to be on duty that day and let that Ministry know as soon as possible which ones will partake so that they in their turn can make arrangements. The two main participators must be of exceedingly high rank but there are many other officials of lower rank in attendance also.

Hsu Delays His Going To Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 22.—The Minister of Justice Mr. Hsu Chien has replied to the Government's telegram urging him to come to Peking, stating that personal affairs have delayed his departure from Shanghai but he expects to arrive in Peking early in October.

Peking, Sept. 22.—Mr. Shih Chih-chuan, Vice-Minister of Justice, who is temporarily in charge of the affairs of that Ministry, took up his new duties yesterday. He was officially welcomed by the staff.

S.V.C. Cricketers Defeat Rest By 83 Run Margin

The cricket match between the S. V. C. XI and the Rest of Shanghai, which was started on Saturday came to a finish on Sunday afternoon, the S. V. C. winning by a margin of 83 runs.

The Volunteers began their second innings badly, losing Day in the second over. However things looked better when Leach and Hayward got together and put on 50 runs for the second cricket. Hayward was playing a polished innings but scored slowly, while Leach scored 34 to his partner's 14.

C. E. Ollerdessen bowled Leach who was followed by Leslie, who together with Hayward brought the score to 75. Billings captured both their wickets, clean bowling Hayward and getting Leslie caught for a useful 16. Clifford and O'Hara followed on in succession and kept up the good work still together when the century was passed.

Billings captured his third wicket by bowling O'Hara who had scored a good 24; no one else did much, Hayward declaring with 8 wickets down for 128, leaving the Rest with 194 to make to win.

After tea the S. V. C. took the field, Bhoora and Divecha opening for the Rest. The Parsee pair did not stay long, the former being bowled by O'Hara for a single. The redoubtable Ollerdessen came in next but disappointed general expectation by being caught behind the wicket after scoring 16. Divecha was then bowled by O'Hara for 17. The only stand which followed was between Deeks and C. E. Ollerdessen whose partnership realised over 40 runs. However this was only a flash in the pan for the whole side were out for 114. Billings and O'Hara bowled consistently well, the latter also gave a good display of batting in both innings. Hayward's second innings was as good as his first as far as it went, nevertheless his 18 runs in the last innings did a lot to win the watch having stayed in till the 75 mark was passed. This leaves the rival teams with 1 win each this season and we look forward to the decisive game next month if possible.

CARPENTIER IS KNOCKED COLD BY SENEGALESE

Frenchman Believed To Have Underated Opponent

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 24.—In a twenty-round boxing match tonight for the light-heavyweight championship of the world, the Senegalese, Battling Siki, knocked out Georges Carpentier in the sixth round.

The opinion is expressed that Carpentier threw the fight away treating Siki as of no account in the first two rounds and it is thought that his great fighting days are over. Siki's victory was greeted with extraordinary popularity. The spectators were very indignant at the referee's decision.

From the second round Siki demonstrated increasing superiority, badly punishing his opponent, whose eyes in the fifth round were badly swollen.

The sixth round opened very fiercely. The Senegalese hit out effectively with his right and left, flooring Carpentier, who was unable to rise.

The referee declared that Siki had lost on a foul as he believed that he had tripped the Frenchman.

Carpentier was carried off with a sprained ankle, bleeding freely and only half conscious.

The judges subsequently reversed the referee's disqualification and awarded Siki the decision on a knock-out.

The defeat of Carpentier probably means an end to his boxing career. It certainly will result in a halt to all negotiations for a return match with Jack Dempsey and may change his plans for a tour of America where he planned to meet Greb, Bill Brennan and the Gibbons boys.

Battling Siki is a new sun on the world's boxing horizon and already promoters in America are probably figuring him as a logical match for Wills, the winner, of course, to meet Dempsey.

JAPANESE LOSE BASEBALL GAME BY 52 ASAHIS

They Should Have Served Eats And Drinks First, 'Specially Drinks

By Westa

The Japanese journalists' baseball team acquired a lot of experience in their game at the racetrack Sunday afternoon with the "rest" of Shanghai, journalistically speaking. They learned, among other things, that next time they play their fellow scribes it will be good strategy to serve the eatables and drinkables first, with the athletic part of the program to follow along later. Freddy Bills, their coach, should have tipped them off to this last week when he was lecturing them on how to play baseball, but Freddy pulled a boner for once in his life with the result that the "rest" went out there with nothing under their belts but a little tiffin, and got such a start in the early innings that it was impossible to overtake them.

It's a good thing for the Rest that the game only went seven innings, for along toward the last, after Doyle's gang had overpowered the keepers of the Asahi, their big lead began to fade away. Dinny himself, who started to pitch, began to develop a wildness after the third schooner, and a hasty relief signal was flashed to Lehrbas to take the mound. But by that time Larry had let out his belt three times to accommodate the banana squashes that he had absorbed and was barely able to get the ball up to the plate. Larry is an ingenius cuss, however, and soon hit on the idea of what might be called a shot putter's heave, the same being a sort of round arm motion that enabled him to get the ball over his bay window.

Honorable Japanese also made a bonehead play by not tipping off Buster Brown before the game started that the big basket near the players' bench was full of the Far Eastern equivalent of Budweiser, and that it had been supplied by the Japanese. As it was Buster didn't discover this until along about the fifth inning, after which his decisions began to take a distinctly pro-Japanese trend. Buster said afterward that his idea of absolute zero in entertainment is to have to wear an umpire's mask when there is free beer on tap.

From a technical standpoint there was very little to the game, aside from the pitching of Doyle and Lehrbas, and Larry's first base play. McGrath, at short, heard one whizz by, and Westa, at second, managed by a desperate effort to pick up one that stopped rolling just before it reached him and toss it to second, after a few fumbles, in time to get the first half of a double play. Dinny got a fine homer and Larry got three hits, largely by grace of the savage demeanor he assumed at the plate. When Larry got up there to bat there was so much dirt on his brawny arms and so much blood in his eye and such an air of determination and resolution about him that the poor Japanese pitcher hadn't a chance. Once he asked Manager Ikeda if it would be all right if he could tee the ball up for Larry and then step behind the catcher while the demon first sacker was busting it, and it

Cricket Club And P. S. A. Lead In Tennis Standing

With the season of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association at an end except for two sets of matches there is a tie for first place in first league, the Cricket Club and the Portuguese Sporting Association having each won 5 and lost one game. The matches Friday between the Cricket and Recreation clubs may change the rating, for if the Cricket club wins its percentage will be increased over that of the P. S. A., whereas if it loses the Recs will move into second place.

In the second league the Portuguese are undisputed winners, as Friday's results will not affect their standing. A victory for the Recs, however, would push the Cricket club out of first place. Following are the team standings:

First League

	Won	Lost	Percent
Cricket club	5	1	800
Portuguese S. A.	5	1	800
Recreation club	3	1	750
French club	2	2	500
Columbia club	2	3	400
Japanese club	1	4	200
Country club	0	5	000

Second League

Recreation club	4	1	800
Cricket club	2	1	666
S. M. Police	2	2	500
French club	1	2	333
Columbia club	0	4	000
Japanese club	0	4	000

The points won by the various clubs in the two leagues were as follows:

First League

Portuguese S. A.	49

Recreation club	41
Columbia club	33
French club	28
Japanese club	23

Second League

P. S. A.	70

S. M. Police	32
Cricket club	30

Following is a summary of the games played to date. Each side consisted of five players, and three sets made a total of 15 points:

VOLUNTEER FLEET WAGES ACTION IS AGAIN POSTPONED

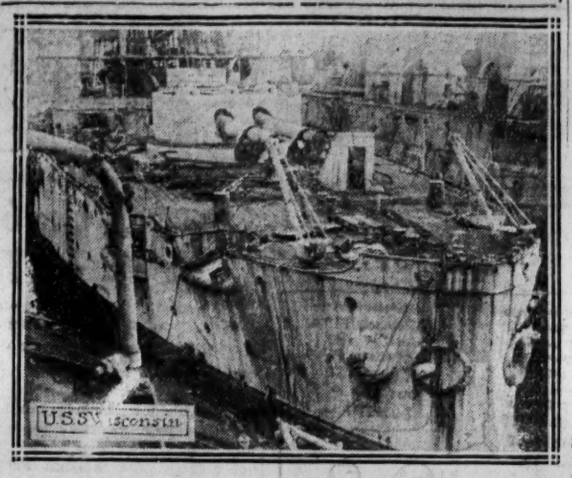
Absence Of Counsel's Interpreter Holds Up Case

The affairs of the Russian Volunteer Fleet again occupied attention at the Mixed Court yesterday, again with the complement of wordy sniping between counsel. The case was that brought by the crews of the vessels Erivan and Astrakhan, claiming back pay, and the linguistic exchanges were due to the absence of the interpreter of Mr. L. W. Hartigan, attorney for the men.

Dr. O. Fischer, counsel for Mr. R. H. Elleder, agent for the R. V. F., commented that it was funny that Mr. Hartigan's interpreter should be absent for the third time that morning and Mr. Alexander Ting, also appearing for defendants, said that it looked as though it were an attempt to prolong the litigation. Mr. Hartigan disclaimed responsibility for his interpreter. Dr. Fischer indignantly refused.

The case was postponed by Senior Consul's Assessor Ivanov, and Magistrate Tsang, Mr. Hartigan being warned that unless he brings his interpreter to court at the next session the case will be dismissed.

Uncle Sam Is Scrapping Navy



IN accordance with the terms of the Disarmament Treaty, Uncle Sam has begun scrapping a large part of his navy. In the yards of Henry A. Hitner's Sons and Co., in Philadelphia, a score of submarines, destroyers, cruisers and battleships are being converted into junk. The view shows the battleship Wisconsin as she appears in the hands of the wreckers.

Parents Have Restful Nights

Who Keep Baby's Own Tablets In The House.

When baby wakes in the night crying with pain you are filled with alarm and don't know what to do.

With a vial of Baby's Own Tablets in the house you would soon set matters right; just a Tablet or two administered as a powder (children like them for they are pleasant in taste) and baby relieved of his pains, quickly drops off into contented, restful, healthful sleep.

There is not an atom of opiate or other harmful drug in Baby's Own Tablets, and they are equally harmless and helpful to the infant in arms as to the child of 6 or more. They reduce fever, cure colic and indigestion, dispel constipation, check diarrhoea, allay teething pains, relieve croup and colds. Your chemist sells them, or post free at 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

HAGEN DEFEATS ABE MITCHELL BY "MIRACLE" GOLF

Abe Mitchell, the great veteran of English golf, used to wear the crown belonging to "the greatest match player in the world," but that crown was knocked violently from Mr. Mitchell's head in a thirty-six hole match against Walter Hagen at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club in which Hagen defeated Mitchell 2 up and 1 to play and, by the manner of his victory, proved that the crown is rightfully his.

Hagen has always been known as a super golfer in the pinch, but in this match he surpassed himself in snatching victory from Mitchell's eager hands when the Englishman had him 4 down and 9 to play. Facing an almost hopeless task Hagen unleased a fierce attack on that last nine that won the tenth, eleventh, fourteenth and fifteenth holes to square the match and the seventeenth to clinch it.

It was one of the most sensational finishes ever seen in a match play contest in the United States.

Before the meeting it was predicted that Mitchell would outdrive Hagen, but Hagen proved that under pressure his drives can measure up with the tee wallops of any player in the world. With practically no difference noticeable in the length of the shots and with both men approaching with all the accuracy of machine gunners spraying a stationary target, the issue finally narrowed down to supremacy on the greens, and it was there that Hagen won out. He exhibited the most sensational single shot of the day on the twelfth green when, after Mitchell had laid him a dead stymie he chipped in with a mashie from four feet away and won the hole.

Mitchell proved that he belonged among the golfing great of the earth by a strong comeback on the first nine of the afternoon round after finishing one down to Hagen at the end of the eighteen holes played in the morning but even a Mitchell couldn't withstand the Hagen attack once it was let loose in all its fury. Both men had good medal scores in the morning, Hagen getting a 75 and Mitchell a 76.

Hagen increased his lead to 2 up on the first hole of the afternoon round when he got a 4 against Mitchell's 5, but Abe sank a twenty-five-foot putt for a "birdie" 2 on the next hole, and then proceeded to square the match on the next hole when Walter developed a sudden streak of wildness. Hagen got into trouble on the next hole and needed a 6. Mitchell got a 5 here and went into the lead by a hole.

The next hole was halved. Mitchell added another hole to his lead on the long sixth, with a 4 against Hagen's 5, and then on the seventh hole the Englishman brought an amazed gasp from the gallery when he chipped his second shot dead into the cup from about twenty-five yards off the green. That put him 3 up, and when he won the next hole with a 4 against Hagen's 5, it looked like curtains for the man who wears the title of America's greatest golfer.

The ninth hole was halved in fives, however, and then Hagen settled down to the grim business of performing a golf miracle. He smashed into his drives with all the fury and power of a Dempsey, but just off the green and on his putts his touch was as delicate and sure as the touch of a Kreisler running his nimble fingers over the slim throat of a Stradivarius. No player in the world could have stood up under such an attack and finally Walter clinched victory for himself and offered further testimony to the growing power of the American homebred when he sank a six-foot putt for the match on the seventeenth hole.

Vanity Of Bride Causes Her Death

London, (by mail).—Vanity which caused too tightly laced corsets brought death to a girl at Gronau, Silesia, just as her wedding was about to begin.

Her fiance was waiting on the steps of the church and called to her to hurry. The girl started to run. When she was a few feet away from her prospective husband she fell dead.

A doctor who was hurriedly summoned made an examination on the spot and announced that her death was due to too tightly laced corsets.

Special Shantung Issue Is Published By Weekly Review

Much matter of value and interest in connection with the Shantung question is to be found in the special "Shantung Redemption" issue brought out as a supplement to the regular September 23 number of The Weekly Review of The Far East.

The magazine contains over 100 pages and includes articles on Tsingtau and the province giving both the Chinese and Japanese points of view. The articles are by writers familiar with the situation at present and with the developmens leading up to the negotiations for Shantung's return to China. The stated purpose of the issue is to present an unbiased and frank discussion of the matter and it lays stress on the importance of future development. As a historical record the publication is valuable and it contains commercial information of a very useful sort. The magazine includes many photographs illustrating the various phases of commercial activity throughout the district and the social side of the question is discussed by persons resident in the province.

The special issue gives the name of Mr. Roy C. Bennett as special editor. The price of the issue is $1 and copies may be obtained from the news stands or at the offices of The Weekly Review, 4 Avenue Edward VII.

Singapore Rubber Auction

Singapore, September 6, 1922

Since our last report news has been current to the effect that the Dutch Government definitely refuses to legislate for restriction of output, which decision has had a depressing effect in all markets. London and New York have remained nominally unchanged and dull, whereas the local market dropped about ¾ cent. There has, however, been a fair amount of trading at the lower level, and at the time of writing a slightly better feeling is prevailing, London having advanced ½d.

At today's auction 754 tons were put up for sale, 552 tons offered and 394 tons sold.

The demand was altogether fair on account of an all-round covering, but no keen interest was shown by any buyers present.

Singapore Standard Sheet suffered a decline of ¾ cent on the week; only a small quantity was sold, practically all lots being withdrawn as buyers only bid 22¾ cents. The price paid was 23¼ cents for Sheet in estate cases. Sheet equal to Standard found ready buyers. Off Quality Sheet was in fairly good demand. Awarded Standard 1st Latex Crepe sold at the above figures, which mark a decline of 1 cent. This grade and Crepe equal to Standard was shown a fair amount of interets. Off Color Latex Crepes were in good favor. Brown, Dark and Barky Crepes were practically unchanged on the week.

Asia Banking Corporation

September 25, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ⅛d in London on Saturday.

The New York price advanced to 69½ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 442.

The only change in our official quotations here today was a rise in the Yen rate to 64.

Our market while at one time during the morning being on the easy side, was on the whole steady and quiet.

Business in Sterling was done at 3-5⅞ for September-October delivery and 3-5 11/16 for November-December.

Gold Dollars were done at 76¾ September-October 76⅞ November and 77 December.

Yen was done at 62¾ October and 62⅝ November.

There were, however, generally more sellers than buyers of these different currencies at these rates.

Banks were more inclined to sell Gold Dollars than Sterling and the former were therefore done at considerably better rates.

There was some demand today for Franc T.T. of which there were buyers at 1010 for near delivery and sellers at about 1007.

Banks were quoting 3-6½ for Sterling bills, 78½ for Gold Dollar bills and 1040 for Franc bills.

India bought a small amount of silver in London on Saturday and the market is reported as closing steady.

New York advise that there are sellers in their market at the official quotations.

Ningpo Area Needs Famine, Flood Aid

(China Press Correspondence)

Ningpo, Sept. 22.—Of the frequent typhoons which have swept up the China coast four have swept through the Ning-Shao district and each in turn has left its path of destruction in its trail. The great damage in the first was done chiefly by the strong wind, but in the later ones excessive rains combined with high tides to sweep down walls and buildings. During the third typhoon the water rose, in one night, to such a height that the homes in the country were flooded with water from two to four feet deep.

To allay the immediate suffering of the homeless and poor the local officials have been giving out some aid. Meanwhile, the Ningpo Branch of the International Famine Relief Committee has reorganised under the name of the Ning-Shao Branch of the International Famine and Flood Relief Committee so as to operate in Shao-hsing an well as in Ningpo.

An Air Fleet Speculation

AN aeronautical enthusiast who uses the pen-name of "Icarus" visualises in The Fortnightly Review an airship navy for Great Britain which will take the place of the surface fleet. The airplane enters into his scheme only as an auxiliary. "For any type of vessel that can succeed the present warship it is obvious," he says, "that it must be able to float in the air just as a naval vessel floats in the water." This rules out the airplane as a capital ship of the air. It is admitted that the British had poor success with R-33 and R-34—the great dirigibles which were copies of the Zeppelin models. But an advance was made in the operation of lighter-than-air ships with the invention of the mooring mast. The housing shed is no longer necessary. "Icarus" says nothing about what might happen in a tempest. Repairs can be made while the ship is tied up to the mooring mast. He likens it to the jetty or pier used by a surface ship. Other than this device and a development in using hydrogen with the fuel engine that increases the range of the airship by 30 to 40 percent, "Icarus" does not deal with details of progress in aeronautics. He seems to rest his case upon Commander Burney's proposals for the construction of 5,000,000-cubic-foot airships having a displacement of 150 tons, which are planned to maintain a schedule of seventy-five miles an hour and carry forty-five tons of passengers and cargo.

Commander Burney of the Air Ministry made a definite offer to the Home Government to take over all its airships and to inaugurate a bi-weekly service to India and a weekly service to Australia, "subject to a contingent guarantee of interest from the Governments concerned of £171,000 a year." The Air Council was impressed, but was "unable to make any statement regarding the financial aspect of the scheme." In short, it only "viewed" with approval. "Icarus" seems to have no doubt that the plan is feasible. He says:

"It is now possible to build a ship of 5,000,000 cubic feet capacity which would result in increased performance, larger radius of action and useful load and a much higher speed. A vessel of this type would be, roughly, 760 feet long and 110 feet diameter at its maximum girth, and would have a lift of not less than 82.5 tons. By lift is meant the total of fuel, ballast, crew, passengers and cargo that can be carried. For a cruise of 3,000 miles without refueling it would, allowing for contrary winds, have to carry twenty-five tons of fuel, and about thirteen tons would be allocated for the crew, water ballast, etc. There would thus remain about forty-four tons for the carriage of mails, cargo and passengers."

The calculation is made that 207 passengers could be taken which would leave ten tons for mails and baggage. If the vessel were wanted for military operations "the whole of the forty-four tons could be carried in fuel and the distance that could be flown at eighty miles an hour would be just under 12,000 miles." Some speculation about the carriage of troops is indulged in, and then comes this significant observation:

"An airship could carry three fighting airplanes and two torpedoes, bomb or poison-gas carrying airplanes, and further torpedoes as 'spares' could be carried."

Thus we learn how the great dirigible may defend itself, a matter of importance. "The fighting value of the airship," "Icarus" admits, "depends to a large extent on the releasing and re-embarking of the airplanes carried." The plan is not worked out, but he has no doubt it can be. He goes on to say:

"Now, it is a well-known fact that an airship can climb more rapidly than any airplane yet built, and if it were defended by its own fighting machines and possessed a non-inflammable gas blanket, then it could not be destroyed except by an overwhelming number of airplanes."

That is what would probably happen if the enemy were resourceful. The arguments of "Icarus" seems to be a plea for support of the Air Ministry. No doubt, as he says, London could be brought within three days of Bombay and six of Australia and Hongkong—provided the 5,000,000-cubic-foot ships of the blueprint plans are built and prove to have no such faults as condemned R-33 and R34. But at present it is pure speculation. Could they be made non-inflammable? Only if helium were used, and the expense of helium is prohibitive. Could they ride out a hurricane? Lightning might destroy them. In war an airplane bomb of one or two thousand pounds dropped on the leviathan would blow it to tatters.

GERMANS AND THE CUSTOMS

Editor: THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—The articles you have published on this subject have raised considerable discussions among us Customs men.

The crux of the matter is that a lot of sympathy seems to be felt, but what is lacking is movement and a leader. Most of us are but small potatoes. Some of the mighty-ones ought to take up the proposition of pensioning the old Germans formerly in the service.

Perhaps that veteran, C. P. Dawson, will see his way to take the lead? Thanking you for the space, I am, Sir,

Yours truly,
"SYMPATHY."

The Critic Paints A Portrait

BY DR. CHARLES FLEISCHER

It is a question just how much fun the critic gets from his criticism.

We are not speaking of the professional critic of musical, artistic or literary performance.

What we had in mind was the amateur criticism of one another in which most of us indulge considerably, and which commonly masquerades as "conversation."

Whatever mischief may be done to the object of our criticism, there can be no doubt of its reflex damage to the critic himself or herself.

Consider Lillian Russell, lately dead, but whose memory will live in the annals of the stage and will last in the memory of two generations of playgoers.

Her name became the very synonym of beauty. Her voice, too, was beautiful and true, but not so remarkable as it might have been made had her face been less lovely.

For homeliness, with the subconscious sense of inferiority which it gives, often serves as a stimulus to effort which conscious comeliness fails to give.

Nevertheless, this far-famed stage favorite freely blessed with the joy of beauty millions of American eyes and ears.

However, what remains most admirable in this fair lady, now removed from public life and the common ken, is her always invisible and inaudible charm of personality.

And this in turn was due to her friendly, loving spirit. For it is said of her that no harsh criticism of a fellow being was ever known to pass her lips.

Otherwise, we would not here be using her as a shining example to the contrary type of person, the sort that seems to get so much satisfaction from the spoken adverse judgment of others.

There may not be much use in preachment on this score. But, if the moral appeal fails, the appeal to self-respect or physical vanity may not be futile.

Personally we believe that much of Lillian Russell's lasting beauty of face was due to her kindliness of spirit. Contrariwise, we hold that the harsh critic pays in facial ugliness for his ugliness of spirit and of speech.

What fun, then, does such critic have if he has to pay with poisoned soul for poisoned tongue and with unpleasant tell-tale lines for his unfriendly thoughts.

On the other hand, your kind thought and your friendly word blesses the recipient and makes you the happy and successful painter of your own portrait.

Debts England Has Cancelled

History shows that Great Britain has cancelled the war debts of former Allies in earlier wars, as now proposed in the case of France, Italy and other nations which participated in the recent struggle. At the end of the Napoleonic wars the amount advanced by England to the States which fought with her was £57,153,819, according to Elisha M. Friedman, in his book entitled "International Finance and Its Reorganisation" (H. P. Dutton and Co.). This represented both loans and subsidies, and the latter were made without any expectation of collection.

Portugal, Russia, Spain, Austria and the German States received this money between 1793 and 1817. Austria got about £6,000,000, and England endeavored for seven years to obtain payment, finally compromising on £2,500,000, representing 11 percent of the principal and interest.

Considering the comparative position of England at the end of the Napoleonic wars and the world conflict, the author says that "including taxes raised the total cost to England of the twenty-three years of war with France was under £1,117,000,000. The total debt before the Napoleonic wars was £244,000,000 and after them £885,000,000. * * * Loans and subsidies to foreign powers amounted to about £57,000,000, or 8.9 percent of the total war debt. The total military and civil expenditures during the twenty-three years amounted o £1,200,000,000 and the net military expenses to £950,000,000. * * * The indemnity imposed upon France after the Napoleonic wars was only £28,000,000. * * * Yet the debt of victorious England in 1817 was £848,000,000 and the national debt of France was only £140,000,000. Prussia had paid to Napoleon in levies, between 1806 and 1812, more than twice the amount of the total indemnity and she therefore objected to the moderate terms imposed upon France."

Prior to 1688 there had been no such thing in England as a national debt, according to Harvey E. Fisk, author of "English Public Finance," published by the Bankers' Trust Company. But William III brought from Holland a better structure of finance than England had possessed. Instead of pyramiding taxes on his subjects to pay for the wars of the time he floated the first national loans. In 1688 the nation's wealth was £320,000,000 and the public debt only £1,000,000. At the end of the Spanish-Austrian wars in 1749 the national wealth had grown to £500,000,000, and the debt to £79,000,000 and the debt to £79,000,000, says Mr. Fisk. The termination of the Seven Years War in 1766 found national wealth at about the same figure and the debt at £133,000,000. Our fight for independence further increased the English debt to $244,200,000. The figure is for 1785, and proof that England had prospered may be found in the national wealth, put at double the total of 1766.

All of these struggles were financed by direct taxes or the expedient of public loans, most of which carried from 4 to 5 percent, about the same rates as in the last war. Between 1785, at the close of our Revolution, and 1793, which marked the new outbreak of war with France, England prospered greatly. The fall of the Louis XVI came at a time when she was in an excellent financial position, which was fortunate, considering the struggle to follow. The French declared war in February, 1793, and the conflict lasted until the middle of 1801, with a peace signed at Amiens early in 1802. England had not gone far in this war before she was forced to extend financial assistance to her allies, just as she had to do in the recent World War. It was the first time that she had undertaken to make extensive advances for military purposes and matters went so badly with some of her allies that she was practically alone in the field at the turn of the century. The war might have been called a draw all around in the sense that neither side definitely won. But the French position seemed almost past attack and England was compelled to surrender a great deal in the peace of Amiens. The conflict had cost her £420,000,000, a sum almost double her national debt in 1785, and far greater than the world had ever thought of in connection with a war. Mr. Fisk points out that the English public was disturbed over the prospect of paying this sum and financial discussions waged pro and con as they have in our time. In fact, after each of England's wars the problem of paying has been one of great national concern, but it is a matter of record that she always has paid, to the last penny.

May, 1803, witnessed the renewal of hostilities against France. English statesmen believed that if they gave Napoleon time to rest he would become too strong for the rest of the world combined to upset him. So they used an altercation over the island of Malta as an excuse to renew the fighting. Napoleon was hardly prepared for this stroke, but he gave battle in masterly manner, and once more the war dragged on, accompanied by greatly increased expense. It lasted until the peace in Paris of 1815, twenty-three years of war, with a cost to England of £1,200,000,000, upward of five times her debt at the beginning.

In the Crimean War of 1854 to 1856, fought by France, England and Turkey against Russia England did not undertake any important financing for her allies. This was the only struggle of the century between the Napoleonic Wars and the World War which drew heavily upon her exchequer.

Japan Faces Labor Crisis

Unless steps are taken to remedy the unemployment situation in the great industrial centers of Japan a social upheaval is bound to come, according to Mr. Bunji Suzuki, president of the Japan Federation of Labor, known as the Samuel Gompers of Japan. Mr. Suzuki is in Kobe now trying to secure a settlement in the Kobe Steel Works strike and other similar labor disputes, says the Japan Advertiser.

Prolongation of the economic slump is making labor unrest acute and a general social movement is very apt to result, said Mr. Suzuki in talking to The Japan Advertiser correspondent, adding a hope that the Governmental authorities and the leading business men of the country would combine in an effort to solve the problem at once. He laughs at the Government's present attempts to adjust the labor problem.

There are now a quarter of a million laborers idle in the few large manufacturing cities of the country, he said, and this number is continually increasing. The labor leader denounces the alleged indifference of capital toward unemployment, and he declared that some capitalists are "bloodless" in dismissing their men in merciless manners. He cited a common custom now in wide use which entails an easy solution for the employer desiring to reduce his staff. The men, he claims, are given work to do in which they are inexperienced. They are, of course, inefficient, and before long the employer forces them to quit. This method enables him to avoid paying dismissal allowance.

The "black lists" of Western Japan are another sore spot with Mr. Suzuki. This consists of a combination of employers in this section of the country wherein when one employer discharges a man because of his labor or radical agitation, the other employers refuse to give him work. These lists are steadily growing and are responsible, Mr. Suzuki said, for a goodly part of the labor unrest in Western Japan.

Inauguration of state enterprises and especially improvements of present Government services offers a solution for unemployment, the labor leader declared, pointing out that the Japan Federation of Labor made this recommendation to the Government shortly after the present financial depression set in. Extension of railways, building of roads, improvement of harbor facilities, installation of sewer systems, building of water works and other civic development are prominent among the needs of Japan which can be accomplished at this time and in the accomplishment solve the labor problems, according to Mr. Suzuki. Improvement of communications is another great need, and he urges its improvement by the Government or forfeiture of the Government monopoly to permit building of a new system and providing of efficient service. Five years he waited for a telephone in his Tokio home, he said, while when he was in the United States to attend the labor conference a telephone was installed for him the third day after he had applied.

Japan must replace its narrow gauge railroads with the wide or standard gauge some time, and if that was undertaken now, he says, it would relieve the entire unemployment problem of the nation. Harbor improvements are an urgent need, and no country has as wretched roads as Japan, he declares, and a movement to better either would give work to many unemployed men. Mr. Suzuki went to sleep one night in the headquarters of the Kobe branch of the federation, and during the night he was forced to flee from the building as water rose above the floor of the house. Such occurrences are common in Japanese cities, he points out, adding that proper sewer facilities would make the low sections much safer for the people who live there. Traffic in the large cities is another problem that offers employment to hundreds, especially if Tokio, Osaka and Kobe undertook now the contemplated subway systems.

When the correspondent visited Mr. Suzuki he was busy looking over some text books used in Japanese schools. "They are books to foster capitalism and militarism," he declared. "This should be rectified as quickly as possible."

England, France And Germany

(New York Times)

The ups and downs of the negotiations between the English and French Governments were neatly hit off by a recent cartoon in a French newspaper. It represented Mr. Lloyd George on one side looking at the French Premier and saying: "It is always a different man. It is never the same man, but it is always the same policy." But the Prime Minister of France was pictured looking at Mr. Lloyd George and saying: "It is always the same man, but it is never the same policy." The implication may not be strictly true, but has sufficient verisimilitude to give point. The successive French Ministers since the war have not, in fact, been absolutely unyielding except on one point—that Germany must be made to pay in reparations all that she can pay. This is also a settled British policy. Viscount Grey in a recent speech spoke of Mr. Lloyd George's "breathless versatility in foreign politics." By this he explained that he did not mean that the Prime Minister ever got out of breath, but made other people get out of breath who tried to follow him in his changes. Yet in all the Anglo-French conferences, including the one just broken off in London, Mr. Lloyd George has agreed that Germany must pay all that she is able to pay.

Both countries have been raising the question latterly of Germany's "will to pay." Germans have, in the past, been great on the power of will. All through the war they maintained that victory would come to them if they only willed it hard enough. At present, however, Germany's will to meet her obligations to France seems to be grievously lacking. The will which Germany expresses either openly or tacitly on that point is a will not to pay. Yet when sufficient pressure is applied, the necessary will seems to be forthcoming. The German Government sent a note to Paris stating that it was wholly unable to pay what was due on Aug. 15 in payment of French nationals; but only two days after the French Government had begun to take measures in reprisal, Germany found that she had the money, after all, and paid a large instalment. This long series of yieldings, when forced to yield, does not leave German policy standing in a very creditable light, but it does give one more hint to the French that they have rightly comprehended German psychology and learned how to stimulate the exercise of Germany's will power.

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

who asserted that Birge could be cured if he had the services of expert specialists.

Last December he was admitted to the Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled. Dr. Armitage Whitman performed the operation and superintended the care which literally put Birge upon his feet again.

After thirty-nine years, a new birthday!

Wait, patient reader, the end is not yet, to the newspaper story reciting this romance of science.

The best of it, bringing its word of encouragement even to you, is in this excerpt of a congratulatory letter sent to the heroic Birge by the general secretary of the United Hospital Fund:

". . . Your case is unique in the annals of modern surgical science. Even more wonderful than the restoration of the use of your limbs, however, is the manner in which you have preserved your mental poise, your cheerful disposition and your unshaken confidence in your ultimate recovery."

Surely you do not want the writer to draw any deductions from this tale. Do it yourself.

How To Use A Magnifying Glass

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

A useful little accomplishment which I have observed that surprisingly few persons have acquired is the skillful use of a pocket lens, or magnifying glass. Having the habit of carrying two or three of these lenses in my pockets, and lending them occasionally to persons to whom I am showing photographs, or curious natural objects requiring magnification, I find that hardly more than one or two percent of such persons know how to use the lenses effectively and comfortably.

Almost every unpractised observer holds the object at half-arm's length with the lens near it and so, of course, almost equally far from the eye. This with an ordinary pocket lens, magnifying three diameters or more, is fundamentally wrong. The field of view is restricted, and the object is poorly seen. Frequently, too, the lens is very awkwardly held with its plane more or less inclined to the object, the inevitable result being that the latter is distorted, none of it being truly in focus.

Such management of the glass can only lead to disappointment, whereas when properly used, a pocket lens is capable of furnishing a high degree of instruction and pleasure. Only a large reading glass several inches in diameter and of low magnifying power should be held far from the eye and at the same time relatively near the object.

The proper way to handle a pocket-lens, whether the magnifying powers is three, or a dozen, is to hold it with one hand near the eye, with its plane perpendicular to the object, and then with the other hand carefully bring the object up toward the glass, keeping it in the center of the field of view until it enters the focus of the lens, when its details will come out sharply. It is well, when possible, to steady both arms by resting them on a table, or other firm support.

The simplest pocket-lens will reward its user richly by opening up to his view a world of wonders that lies, unsuspected by most people, not in the great depths which can only be reached by powerful microscopes, but just beneath the surface of common things. I have often wanted to write a book on the fascinating sights that I have personally seen with a pocket-magnifier, as I once wrote a similar one on what an opera-glass shows among the stars.

A little advice on how to choose a pocket lens may not come amiss. I began buying them with my first pocket-money. It is not necessary to purchase a costly lens. Many special forms have been devised, for the use of experts, but a dollar ought to procure as good an article as the average person needs, if only a single lens is desired, which is sufficient in most cases. Choose a lens about an inch in diameter and of about two to two-and-a half inches focus. Such a lens is usually mounted in a flat gutta-percha case not more than three-eighths of an inch thick.

The ordinary lens is double-convex. A better form, in some respects, is the plano-convex, i.e., one side flat, the other convex. This, when held with the convex side toward the eye, gives a flatter and broader field of distinct vision, and it is more free from disturbing reflections. But upon the whole the double-convex is good enough for general purposes.

To find the focal distance of a lens, focus the sun, or the image of some distant object seen through an open window, upon a sheet of paper and measure the distance between the center of the lens and the sharply defined image. To find the magnifying power in diameters, rule a set of parallel lines, say an eighth, or a sixteenth, of an inch apart, and after focusing the lens upon a part of them, open both eyes, draw the head away from the lens until with one eye you see the magnified and with the other the unmagnified lines.

The number of unmagnified spaces that a single magnified space covers is the numerical equivalent of the magnifying power. An object magnified three times in diameter is magnified nine times in area, but when the term "magnifying power" is used without qualification it always means the number of diameters that the object appears enlarged, and never the areal magnification.

It is, of course, an advantage in many cases to have two or three lenses, each of a different magnifying power. This is often arranged for by mounting several lenses in the same case, so that on opening them out, either one alone, or two or three superposed, may be used. Thus by various combinations a considerable variety of powers may be obtained—as many as six with three lenses. High-power combinations, however, are somewhat troublesome to manage. In the "Coddington lens" and similar forms the glass is often thicker through in the direction of the optical axis than the opposite way.

A person fond of such manipulations may construct excellent magifying glasses, of relatively high powers, by mounting different lenses in small tubes. I once purchased in Paris a "vest-pocket opera-glass," which gave me no great satisfaction when used as intended, but I put the two achromatic object glasses together and thus made one of the best pocket magnifiers I have ever used.

A Romance Of Science

BY DR. CHARLES FLEISCHER

How many birthdays have you?

That Frenchman loved his land well who said that each of us has two countries, his own and France.

In similar sense you may have two birthdays—or more, celebrating your first arrival and another rebirth, or a number.

Be sure that August 15, 1922 will always be a second birthday for Frederick W. Birge, of Middleburg, Vermont. On that day, at the ripe age of fifty-three, he "arrived" once more at the New York Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled.

On that very date, when he was fourteen, Birge was stricken with infantile paralysis, the earliest case recorded in Vermont. And now he holds the record his case being the longest period of paralysis, ending in recovery, in the annals of surgery.

Thirty-nine years later, to a day, Frederick Birge walked again!

When stricken, the boy's legs contracted into the position of one sitting. All efforts to cure him were vain. The case was hopeless.

His wheel chair became his home and his moving throne.

You remember the line: "My mind to me a kingdom is."

That was the case with Birge. His mind and his spirit—and, later, the consecrated scientists—saved him.

The boy's arms, with constant propelling of his chair and pulling himself up by anything he could grasp, developed almost the strength of a gorilla.

His soul was evidently stronger still.

With his sister, he owns a sixty-acre farm in Vermont, producing poultry, dairy products, fruits and berries. Birge learned to pull himself up, hand over hand, into the seat of a wagon.

From this new wheeled throne he sold his produce.

Eight years ago there was an epidemic of infantile paralysis in Vermont, as elsewhere in the States. Vermont established an aftercare department.

A visiting nurse from Boston heard of Birge's case. She went to see him. A year ago he was examined by a Boston physician for Infants and Children.

CASTORIA
The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

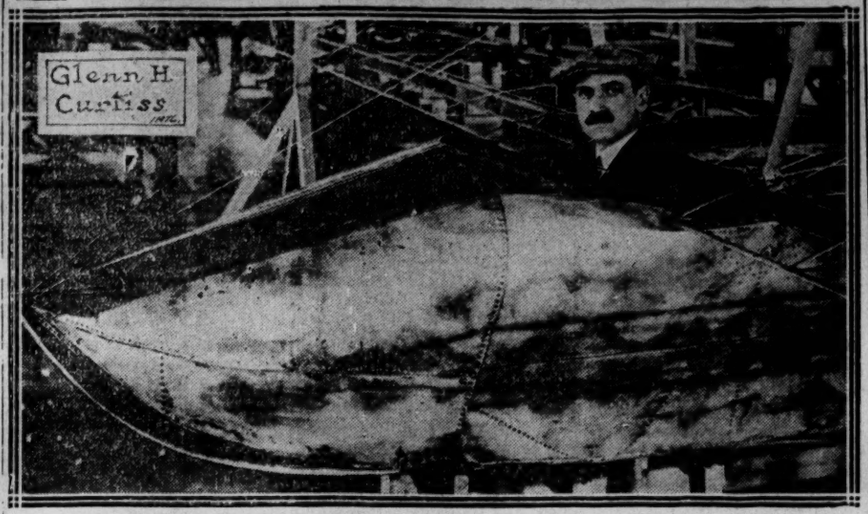
Curtiss Hopes To Arise In Glider From Sea



SPURRED on by the successful glider flights of two hours in Germany, Glenn H. Curtiss, of Buffalo and New York, one of the world's foremost aeronautical engineers, has perfected a seaplane glider which, he believes, will rise, unaided, from the sea and fly into the face of a stiff wind. His new motorless craft is of the same type as the NC boats that flew across the Atlantic. It is built of wood, duralumin and silk, and weighs only 150 pounds.

Union Church Ladies Thanked For Donation

A letter of acknowledgment and thanks from the Princess Louise Scottish Hospital for Limbless Sailors and Soldiers, Glasgow, has been received by Mrs. G. B. Fryer, honorary treasurer of the Union Church Ladies' Society, which on January 17 remitted a draft for £244:0:6 for use by the Queen Mary's Convalescent Auxiliary Hospitals. The donation brought the grand total of subscriptions made by the local society up to £2,806:5:7. The letter stated:

"Your painstaking efforts to raise funds on our behalf have been stupendous and well might your Society feel exceedingly proud of the results of your labors. The President of the Hospital, the Lord Provost of the City and all members of the Executive unite in sending their heartfelt thanks to your Society for their continued support and appreciation of the work being done on behalf of our disabled men. Much distress has prevailed in this city during the past year and the Hospital in common with other charitable institutions has had a srtenuous struggle to carry out their financial obligations, but by effecting economies we have carried on and completed another year's useful work, which is receiving unstinted praise from all in authority.

"The number of resident patients at the Hospital showed a decrease last year, but as against that a very large number of men attended throughout the year for repairs to their artificial limbs. Since the beginning of the year, the Ministry of Pensions has sent a large number of men to the Hospital for treatment, who had previously received treatment in Government centers. Many of these centers are closing down as an economic measure, and the men are being transferred to this Hospital. The majority of these men are "feet" cases, not limbless, and they much prefer the treatment at Erkine to the somewhat official methods of a Government institution. Last November Lord Blythswood opened the new Morton Recreational Hall at the Hospital, gifted by Mr. and Mrs. George Morton (members of our Executive) in memory of their son the late Captain G. Morton. It is a very handsome building and cost the donors about £15,000. Too much cannot be said as to its usefulness, as it has proved a long felt want to the men. During the long winter evenings in previous years the men drifted into the surrounding towns, with their attendant evils, but now, there is no desire for that as they are provided with excellent concerts in the concert hall, and the billiard and recreation rooms are now patronised to the full each evening. Several dances and fancy dress carnivals are also held each month, and the spirit in which the disabled men enter into the fun and dancing has only to be been to be appreciated.

"The workshops for the training of the men have been in the flourishing state throughout the year, and in this connection my Committee are very gratified with the results. At present there are 130 men in training; while civilian workshops throughout the country have been closed down or are on short time owing to dull trade our workshops have been working at high pressure to deliver the orders received. This happy state of affairs particularly applies to the Boot-making and Furnishing Departments which were successful in obtaining several important contracts. The former for instance at present does quite 75 percent of the work of making surgical boots for disabled men, for the Ministry of Pensions and they also do most of the repairs to the children's boots for the Glasgow and Renfrewshire Education Authorities. The Furnishing Department are fully engaged in turning out private orders and they have done a large amount of ships' fittings for shipbuilding firms on the Clyde. Recent events tend to indicate that our workshops will be the only one of its kind remaining in Scotland very soon, for the employment of disabled ex-service men. The Ministry of Labor during the past two years opened up several centers for training these men, but one by one they are closing down, having met with indifferent success and hampered by the hostility of the Trades Union, but our workshops continue to flourish. A large sum was spent last year in providing new machinery for our shops, but we hope in future years to reap the benefits of this outlay.

"Again thanking you for your generosity and with all good wishes.

I remain,
Yours faithfully,
(Signed) T. A. H. Anderson."

N. Y. Bootleggers War On Each Other

New York (by mail).—New York City is in the throes of a bootleg war, which had its beginning more than a year ago and already is spreading to other cities. This general feud growing out of enormous profits in illicit liquor traffic and resultant "professional jealousy" is expected to account for half a hundred unsolved and unpunished killings, in addition to hundreds of known bootleg slayings, it was said by general prohibition agents.

The records of the office of District Attorney Banton bear out this statement. There are more than three hundred of these unexplained killings listed in the homicide division of the district attorney's office. And these are exclusive of killings in New Jersey, which is closely tied to New York City areas in bootleg matters. A large number of these three hundred killings have been traced to the Camorra, but it is conservative to estimate that fifty of them will be traced eventually to the bootleg foud, which within the last few days has resulted in street shooting affrays in which more than a dozen men and children have been killed and wounded.

The recklessness of the gunmen, who, the police charge, are in the employ of bootleg rings, is causing the police department much worry and instructions were sent out from all East Side and Lower West Side police precincts to round up all known gangsters and search them for concealed weapons.

Prohibition agents travel and are in touch with bootleg conditions in various cities. They are the best authority on any prohibition subject and they admit warlike conditions exist in New York and New Jersey among bootleg rings. They say that no citizen has anything to fear, except accidental shooting, as the rival bootleg rings are out only to shoot each other.

The jealousy which exists among the bootleggers, many of whom are men of families and ordinarily live a quiet business-like existence, is due to the belief among some bootleggers that others enjoy some mysterious protection.

Editor T. S. Lee To Answer Charges In Mixed Court

In connection with reports that Mr. T. S. Lee, editor of the Chinese Associated Press at Shanghai, had been arrested in Peking a further report is that he is being brought to Shanghai to answr charges of criminal libel before the Mixed Court that were laid some time ago on complaint of Kai En-hung, who was former Superintendent of the Telegraph Department of the Ministry of Communications here.

Mr. T. S. Lee, the Editor of the Associated Press (Chinese) of Shanghai, who has been wanted by the Mixed Court to appear in a case of libel brought against him by Kao En-hung, the Minister of Communications, is reported to have been arrested in Peking a few days ago, and brought to Shanghai immediately following the arrest under special police guard. The hearing of the case is expected to begin this week.

The case originated in the publication of an alleged false news item injuring the character and reputation of Kao En-hung on March 30 in The Eastern Times, the news said to have been supplied by the Chinese Associated Press. The news alleged that Kao En-hung, then Superintendent of the Telegraph Department of the Ministry of Communications at Shanghai, had embezzled the government funds to the amount of Tls. 100,000.00 for the purpose of making up his personal losses in speculating on shares of exchange houses at Shanghai. The report continued to relate that Kao En-hung, in order to have more time to cover up his embezzlement, approached prominent military officials to petition the Government to delay his departure for Shensi, because, as it was reported, after learning his conduct in Shanghai, the Ministry of Communications of Peking had decided to transfer Kao from Shanghai to Shensi.

Indians Jailed For Assaulting Chinese

Sentence of fourteen days at hard labor by Magistrate G. W. King of the British Police Court yesterday was passed on two Indians charged with assaulting a Chinese on Ward Road Sunday night.

The Chinese, a storekeeper employed by the Amos Bird Company, said that he was proceeding along Ward Road in company with three others in ricshas when the two defendants and two other Indians attacked him, one striking him with a stick and upsetting his ricsha. The other two Indians, he said, were allowed to go by a Sikh trooper. The defendants denied the assault and said that the attack was made by another Indian.

Mariners Have New Method For Sounding Depths

A new method for determining the depth of the sea, which has been devised by a German inventor named Hannemann, of Kiel, is described in the Engineering Supplement of The London Times. This new method depends on measuring the time taken by a body to fall from the surface to the bottom. According to the laws of gravitation the movement through the water should be an accelerated one, but in fact the acceleration is soon counteracted by the friction of the body in the water, so that from a certain point the speed of falling becomes regular. The bodies used contain a cartridge, which is automatically fired when the bottom is reached, and the sound of the explosion is picked up from the ship by means of a submarine signaling listening apparatus. The time is determined by an ordinary stop watch.

The speed of the ship, which need not be reduced, has some influence upon the time taken by the sound to reach the navigator's ear, but this influence is small. With great depths and considerable ship's speed the error may be eliminated by means of tables, as the physical quantities involved are well known. The shape of the bodies may be varied, according to the presumptive depth, to give different times of falling, since a certain lapse of time is desirable for small depths in order to get accurate measurements, but with great depths, where a difference of a few feet is of no consequence, it is of some importance that the times for sounding should not be too long.

Former Drug King Who Broke Jail Here Has $1.75 Assets

David Lightner, central figure in the sensational jail break which occurred at the American jail here early in the summer and touted as one of the most successful drug smugglers on the Pacific Coast of America now has a total of assets calculated at $1.75 Mex., according to a copy of the Portland Oregonian just received.

The $1.75 is money sent to the Portland authorities by United States Marshal Thurston Porter. It was taken by the officials here when Lightner was arrested and was in the form of a postal money order. Lightner after his escape from the jail here was found on board a United States Shipping Board vessel which had put to sea and was taken to San Pedro, California, from which point he was sent to Portland, where he was wanted in connection with a drug case.. During the past five years Lightner has been concerned in morphine and cocaine deals of $50,000 to $100,000 magnitude, the Oregon paper states.

MERCHANTS COMING

(China Press Service)

San Francisco, Sept. 24.—Thirty prominent Chinese merchants from San Francisco sailed on the President Lincoln for China today to make extended visits to their homeland.
